IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The Customs Department has a duty to protect Bermuda from drugs, firearms and other harmful goods and to stop smugglers evading import duty. To do this, we need your help and co-operation. If a customs officer stops you and asks questions or makes checks of your baggage, please comply with their directions. If you break the rules officers may seize your goods and impose substantial penalties. For certain customs offences you could face prosecution and imprisonment.

This form should only be completed if you have goods in excess of your duty free allowances, if you are claiming transfer of residence allowance or if you have prohibited or restricted goods or cash or negotiable instruments to declare. Where members of the same household arrive together, the responsible household member may make one combined household declaration.

Duty free allowances for every person aged 18 years or more include up to 1 litre of spirits, 1 litre of wine, 0.5kg of tobacco, 50 cigars and 200 cigarettes. Every person who is entitled to reside in Bermuda has a $200 duty free allowance on their accompanied personal goods. All visitors have a $50 duty free allowance on their accompanied personal goods. Transfer of residence allowance is available to returning islanders and immigrants in respect of their used personal baggage. Generally, duty will be assessed by Customs at the standard rate of (25%) of the value of the goods in excess of the duty free allowances.

Controlled drugs, obscene material, fireworks, firearms and ammunition are generally prohibited from being imported. Live animals and plants, fruit, vegetables require an import permit.

Cash and negotiable instruments of a value greater than BDA $10,000, or the equivalent amount in foreign currency, must be declared to Customs. "Cash" includes coins and bank notes in any currency. "Negotiable instruments" includes monetary instruments such as cheques, travellers cheques, promissory notes and money orders.

Goods for business use must not be declared on this form. Business goods or goods bought on commission or as an accommodation for any other person must be declared separately on a Bermuda Customs Declaration (BCD). Duty free allowances do not apply to business goods or to goods that are not your personal property.

Additional information regarding duty free allowances, rates of exchange, import prohibitions and declaring currency is posted near to duty payment points. This additional information, together with instructions on completing customs declarations and guidance on using the airport dual-channel (red/green) system is available on the Bermuda Government Portal www.gov.bm.
